THE NEW COMMISSIONER. Col. Robert Assumes Office and the Board is Reorganized.

Shortly before noon today Mai. Raymond entered the District building, accompanied by Col. Henry M. Robert, the new Engineer Commissioner. They had just arrived from Philadelphia, and as they entered the building the first person to greet them was a STAR representative. The gentlemen retired to Maj. Raymond's old room, where the clerks of the engineer department were presented to the new Commissioner. The two civil Commissioners were introduced later. and then Dr. Tindall was called and the quartet retired to the board room, where the new engineer Commissioner was sworn in.

After Secretary Tindall had read the oath to support the constitution and faithfully discharge the duties of the office he asked Col.

Robert if he would subscribe to it. The colonsi replied in a firm voice that he would and signed his name. The new board was then organized, Mr. Douglass being re-elected president and Mr. Hine vice president.

In conversation with a STAR reporter today Col. Robert said he did not know how he should like his present to the state of the stat Col. Robert said he did not know how he should like his new post; that the work was entirely new to him, and consequently he could give no opinion. He said that he had already taken hold and would lose no time in mastering the workings of his office. Col. Robert is a man below the average in size with a full beard. He wears glasses and is of dark complexion.

DISCUSSING THE CODE.

Five Minute Speeches in the House-Talk About Pensions.

COLOR LINE IN THE SENATE.

The Subject Incidentally Up in Debate.

THE SENATE.

Among the bills reported from committee and placed on the calendar was one to transfer the revenue marine to the naval establishment. Mr. Sherman's resolution, offered yesterday, to proceed today (after the morning business) to the consideration of bills on the calendar under rule 8 was taken up and agreed to. At 12:30 the Senate chamber was so darkened by a passing storm that there had to be a temporary suspension of business until the gas was lighted over the glass panels in the ceiling. Then the Senate proceeded to the consider-ation of bills on the calendar under rule 8.

BILL PASSED. The following bills, among others, were

House bill for the relief of the sufferers by the wreck of the United States steamers Frenton and Vandalia and the stranding of the United States steamer Nipsic at Apia, Samoan

THE LOUISIANA STATE UNIVERSITY. A bill to increase the endowment of the Louisiana state university and agricultural college gave rise to considerable debate.

Mr. Gibson explained the circumstances which rendered the passage of the bill necessary. A portion of the funds of the institution, he said, had been invested in Louisiana state bonds, and these bonds had been scaled down by legislation 40 per cent and the rate of interest reduced. In addition to that loss the buildings had been destroyed by fire. The bill granted 46,000 acres of public lands in the state, which were very poor lands and not likely to be home-steaded. He mentioned, in passing, that the first president of the college had been Gen. m Tecumseh Sherman. Mr. Ingalls remarked that the bill did not present an equitable claim to his mind. There was no delinquency or omission on the part of the United States. AGRICULTURAL COLLEGES. Mr. Morrill also indicated opposition to the bill and mentioned incidentally that he proprosed to introduce at this session a bill to make further provision for agricultural colior for the use of rooms in the McDowell puilding, at the corner of Massachusetts avenue and North Capitol street, for storage purposes or the census office.

Gen. Albert Ordway returned this morning make further provision for agricultural college and that members should go home and say to the veterans that there was no money to pay the pensions of soldiers. He proposed to say that there was money that could not be used for any purpose but the paymain unimpaired, and asked whether the state of Louisiana had fulfilled that condition. Mr. Gibson could not say that the state of Louisiana had literally complied with the act, but it had granted $10,000 a year for the support and maintenance of the institution and uition in it was free. THE COLOR LINE. Mr Ingalls inquired whether in this school there was any distinction made between colored and white children. Mr. Gibson—There is. Mr. Ingalls—Am I to understand that in this school none but white pupils are admitted? Mr. Ingails-I cannot recognize that doc trine. Mr. Gibson-But we have another school similar to this, which is supported by the state, and in which colored pupils alone are taught; and that school is in a very flourishing condi

Mr. Plumb said that he had supported the bill in the committee on public lands, and he gave it now his unqualified assent. As to the exclusion of colored pupils from this school, he reminded the Senate that a majority of Senators had voted several times for a bill appropriating $70,000,000that recognized the same distinction. He had voted against that bill, but not on that ground. He took it that in no state (certainly not in Kansas) was the commingling of white and black pupils made a condition precedent for an appropriation of money. It was true that whatever diminution there was in the fund had grown out of the turpitude or misconduct of the Louisiana state authorities, but it was a fact, nevertheless, that reason of a depletion of its funds, for which the institution itself was not responsible. Mr. Hoar, referring to the exclusion of colored pupils from the Louisiana state university, suggested that the bill should be amended so as to give like benefits to the colored university there.

THE HOUSE. Not more than two dozen members were resent when the House met at 11 o'clock in continuation of Thursday's session. Mr. Stewart (Ga.) and Mr. Reilly (Pa.) enered emphatic protests against the adoption of the proposed code, and the action of Speaker Reed was defended and upheld by Mr. Raines (N.Y.)

Mr. Barnes (Ga.) said that the democrats had been told that the Jeffersonian system of government was to be overthrown and the Hamiltonian system inaugurated. No one could go farther than he in admiration of Hamilton, but he could not forget that Hamilton's system had been unqualifiedly rejected by the fathers of the republic. He (Mr. Barnes) objected to the removal of the obstructions which had for a hundred years against the advocates of subsidies, against those men who would build up the money power. Now the school of Jefferson was to be relegated to the rear and the new school of policy was to e ushered into existence.

DEFENDING THE SPEAKER. Mr. Kelley (Kan.) defended the Speaker's course and alluded to the Speaker's reference to the ruling of Gov. Hill when presiding over the New York senate. The Speaker was a modest man, but if in the course of human events it came to be that the republican party put the name of Thomas B. Reed at the head of its presidential ticket in 1892, and the democratic party in its wisdom put at the head of its ticket the name of David B. Hill, the democrats would go before the country and claim for David B. Hill the credit for the advance which had done so much good for liberty.

IN A GENTLEMANLY MANNER. Mr. Pendleton (W.Va.) said that while he had strongly dissented from the rulings of the Speaker he had always done so in a gentlemanly manner. [Applause.] Therefore he was surprised to see in a western paper which circulated largely in his district (where he had 300 or 400 warm republican friends) a statement that when he was unseated the democrats would lose a valuable man, as he had been foremost in hurling violent epithets at the Speaker. This statement he denied. He was unaware of having spoken discourteously of the gentleman who occupied the chair, though he did most radically disagree with the Speaker's construction of parliamentary law. A PROPER TIME TO APOLOGIZE.

proper time to apologize. Mr. Pendleton responded that he was not apologizing, as he had nothing to apologize for. He was merely denying a false statement. He wished his republican friends (who had voted for him at the last election and would vote for him at the next if he were unseated now) to know that when they voted for him that they did not vote for any person who was not a gentleman. [Applause.]

Mr. Kelley (Kan.) suggested that this was a

Mr. Bynum (Ind.) offered an amendment providing that when any bill for the increase of pension or for granting pensions not formerly provided for is pending it shall be in order to offer an amendment providing by taxation for the payment thereof.

Mr. Thomas (Wis.) opposed the amendment, declaring that its object was to bury all pension legislation in the House.

BELIEVES IN A PENSION TAX.

Mr. Spinola (N.Y.) controverted this proposition and asserted that the democratic side of the House would be found true as steel to the real interests of the veterans of the country. but believed that a tax should be placed especially for the purpose of paying pensions.

Mr. Allen (Mich.) was glad that this heinous amendment sprang from the brain of a gentleman trained in Indiana politics, belonging to that class of men who were peace men in war and war men in peace. This proposi-tion (disguised as it might be) was intended to thwart any attempt to alleviate the condition of soldiers by any further pension legislation Mr. Clements (Ga.) in supporting the amend-ment expressed his belief that the soldiers did not demand extravagance in the granting of

Mr. Grosvenor (Ohio) said that the veteran soldiers of the country understood that the pending amendment was the most thoroughly antagonistic and hostile proposition ever made on the floor of the House, It had first been made by the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. Morrison). Where was that gentleman now? To gentlemen on the other side he would say that they would have to go on record on this amend-ment, and if they voted for it the trumpet of the political Gabriel would never

CALL THEM TO JUDGMENT AGAIN. Mr. Bynum inquired why the republicans had not put the democrats on record two years ago on this very proposition, instead of filibustering against a vote.

Mr. Grosvenor replied that there had been no other way to defeat the bitter hospitality shown to the soldiers of the country. When hostility to the old veterans was rife filibustering was patriotism. [Applause on republican side.] The soldiers understood this proposition and he proclaimed that there would be attached to no set of rules a more deadly piece of parliamentary mechanism to destroy the rights of the soldiers.

THE SOLDIERS' EYES. Mr. Bynum said that gentlemen could not pull wool over the eyes of the soldiers. So far as his record had been made in this he had been in House of every pension measure that had been reported to the House from a committee, and he was ready to vote for every such measure But he proposed that there should be money in the treasury to pay the pensioners. He did not propose that the river and harbor bill, the French spoliation bill and the direct tax bill ment of pensions. Mr. Bynum's amendment was rejected-yeas

96. navs 164. THE WORLD'S FAIR BILL.

Report of the House Committee-How it is Proposed to Choose the Site. Mr. Candler of Massachusetts made a unanimous report to the House this morning from the world's fair committee. The report strongly recommends the holding of the fair as a suitable commemoration of the great discovery of having taken part in a revolutionary Columbus and illustrative of the wonderful development of the new world. It takes the ground that the celebration should be national and that the nations of the world should be invited to attend and take part in it. TWO BILLS SUBMITTED. The committee state that it was impracticable to report one bill that would suit any of the sites proposed, and that they therefore submit two bills, one of which is applicable to Washington and the other to the three other cities. A resolution is attached to the report providing that these bills shall be discussed, and that on the day following the close of the discussion a vote shall be taken on the selection of the

HOW THE VOTE SHALL BE TAKEN. The manner provided for taking the vote is that the name of each member shall be called and he shall name the city he desires to vote for. If on the first vote no city has a majority of the votes cast the call shall be repeated until some site gets a majority. WHAT THE CELEBRATION SHOULD BE. The report concludes with the following expression of sentiment upon the general project of a world's fair:

"For years the people of the United States, in great numbers, with enthusiasm and unanimity, in various ways, by petitions, resolutions, in the public press and through their representatives in Congress, have signified their earnest desire that the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus should be recognized and commemorated by this nation in 1892. They would have this generation record its grateful appreciation of the genius and the courageous faith of this great man, whose life and services contributed so much to the progress and elevation of mankind, and not only the people of this country but the nations of the world should be invited to participate and contribute to the grandeur of the celebration It is indicated by a recognized public senti-ment that this celebration shall include appropriate ceremonies and a world's fair and exhibition unsurpassed and unequaled, if possi-ble, by any national commemoration that has preceded it. "The committee unanimously presenting this report believe that the celebration proposed is a deserved recognition of the great services of Christopher Columbus and that it will lead the people of the United States to appreciate with greater patriotism the beneficence of free institutions and the achieved national greatness of their country, and that by the interchange with all our people and those of other nations who will be brought together the material interests and prosperity of all will be promoted.'

NEW YORK WANTS IT POSTPONED. At the meeting of the world's fair committee today before the report was adopted a motion was made in the interest of New York to post pone the fair until 1893. A loud cry of protest was made against it, and it was finally agreed that after the site had been selected by the House the New York men might make the motion to postpone and let the House vote on it. On the contrary they have promised already to introduce a bill handing over the local government of Ireland to these convicted criminals. He has been the occupant of this position at the head of the pay department for eight years, and has in that time earned the reputa-tion of being one of the most efficient, faithful and careful accounting officers who ever served the government. He has never been a particu-larly popular man in the army, though never an unpopular one, owing to his somewhat reserved, retiring nature, but there is no one in the service who does not express the opinion that his administration of the financial affairs of the army has been a most successful one. It is the best compliment that the Treasury department can say of a man that his accounts are satisfactory, and it is there said of Gen. Rochester that his accounts were the best ever received. He has been on duty in this city at various times and has a great many friends

His retirement will necessitate the appoint ment of a new paymaster general, and in anticipation of that event several candidates have been in the field for some time. The most promising of these are Colonels Rodney Smith and Wm. A. Rucker, who are at the head of the list, and Majors Wm. R. Gibson, Chas. M. Terrill and Asa B. Carey.
